

RE: Notification of Intent to Use Third Party
Inspection Agency

I have been working with a third-party inspector (Lourenco Consultants) since filing a "Notification of Intent to Use Third Party Inspection Agency" in December, 2015. This week I asked for a rough-in inspection of my project (B 1508643) when I learned that they were blocked from inspecting the electrical permit (E 71769491). It seems that the electrician scheduled a DCRA inspection of an early phase of his work. I should have told him to schedule the third party inspector. I am a home owner and not an expert in these matters and regret the mistake. I was confused because the early phase was related to changing Pepco service (a very specialized task), and I thought that was separate from the rest of my permitting, similar to how the wall check works.

Please unblock my third-party inspector and allow them to inspect the electrical work on my project.

Thank you,

Brandon Gallas
